

Permission to use CNPA conservation video

The Carolinas' Nature Photographers Association (CNPA) is a private non-profit 501-C 3 corporation, founded in 1992 to promote nature photography in the Carolinas, to help conserve and preserve the diverse natural ecosystems in the Carolinas and to educate others interested in nature and wildlife photography.

One of the ways CNPA works to accomplish the mission is by the activities of a conservation committee. The committee has produced and published educational videos and is now willing to consider granting permission for use by other organizations.

The CNPA will make these videos available to nonprofit and education groups under the following circumstances:

1. The group is not a for-profit entity.
2. The group will not use CNPA videos for political purposes or any purpose that will adversely affect CNPA's reputation or status as a nonprofit group.
3. The group will not alter the CNPA video in any way.
4. The group will secure permission to use the video in advance using the form entitled CNPA Video Permission Form.
